I know the times seem to grow ever-more-challenging, not just for our identities as Penn colleagues but as fellow Eco-Reps -- heck, I don’t know about you, but we haven’t had recycling picked since June -- and I want to reaffirm that it’s OK to be gentle with yourself. Afford yourself time to grieve for what we’ve lost, and at the same time allow yourself to enjoy moments of peace where and when you find them.

The way they turn their bodies into little snowboards to travel on land

During egg incubation and during the first weeks of their hatchlings’ lives, Dad stays at home while Mom brings home the bacon -- I appreciate their challenge of traditional patriarchy

Dads survive the coldest winter months by huddling together in a huge group, taking turns on the inside and outside -- I admire the community-oriented mindset

Empire Penguins are an absolute delight; some highlights:

- The way they turn their bodies into little snowboards to travel on land
- During egg incubation and during the first weeks of their hatchlings’ lives, Dad stays at home while Mom brings home the bacon -- I appreciate their challenge of traditional patriarchy
- Dads survive the coldest winter months by huddling together in a huge group, taking turns on the inside and outside -- I admire the community-oriented mindset

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

The Shakespeare Garden - the small, gated garden outside the Fisher Fine Arts Library. Not only is it an intimate space I’ve enjoyed during many a lunchtime walk, tucked away enough to cut back on noise pollution from the streets, but I focused on Shakespeare during my Theater major: the nature-themed quotes the garden’s design team chose to carve into its stone path are sublime.

As a Communications Co-Chair, I help Elizabeth and the Committee with Eco-Rep-directed communications tasks. I also help plan and coordinate Eco-Reps meetings (I hope you all enjoyed that Rain Check presentation from back before we all went remote!)

By day, I’m the Global Initiatives Fellow at the Office of the Vice Provost for Global Initiatives. By lunch, I’m a Communications Co-Chair on the S&F Eco-Reps Steering Committee.

WHAT DO YOU DO AT PENN?

FAVORITE ANIMAL?

FAVORITE CUISINE?

Favorite Animal?

Emperor Penguins are an absolute delight; some highlights:

- The way they turn their bodies into little snowboards to travel on land
- During egg incubation and during the first weeks of their hatchlings’ lives, Dad stays at home while Mom brings home the bacon -- I appreciate their challenge of traditional patriarchy
- Dads survive the coldest winter months by huddling together in a huge group, taking turns on the inside and outside -- I admire the community-oriented mindset

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?

Chinese. Sichuan, specifically. We are so lucky to have legit hot pot not just in Philadelphia, but so close to campus - LaTao is such excellence and I can’t wait to go back.

Favorite Animal?